Diploma in Restorative Dentistry
The FGDP(UK)'s Diploma in Restorative Dentistry is a renowned part-time two-year course that can be taken in either Manchester or London. Designed to ensure successful candidates are fully equipped to offer the highest standards of restorative dentistry to patients. This diploma will give you an opportunity to broaden your services in a way that suits you and your practice. The syllabus for this highly regarded course takes a modern, hands-on approach to all of the relevant subjects in restorative treatment.
Course Content
The subjects covered are:
• Occlusion
• Periodontics
• Operative dentistry
• Prosthodontics
• Endodontics

Teaching Methods
The Diploma consists of a number of components including self-directed distance learning (45 credits), workplace-based training (60 credits), contact learning sessions (15 credits) and the submission of eight fully documented case treatments.

The Diploma sets a quality standard to assist commissioners seeking dentists with enhanced restorative skills. This practical, patient-based and clinically relevant course will enable practitioners to develop advanced skills and knowledge in a structured, progressive and supportive environment. Supportive of workplace-based training, over the period of two years, participants take part in modules covering six key areas, with a special interest module in the second year on either periodontics or endodontics.
